TELLS ABOUT HER TRIAL

Mrs. Larson Adds Testimony to That of Thousands Who Have Tried Cardui With Good Results.

Mr. Pleasant, Ia.—"For eight years," writes Mrs. H. C. Larson, of this city, "I was a sufferer with womanly troubles. The doctor could only relieve me at times. Then I received a fall, which added to my suffering. The doctors wanted to operate, but I could not stand the thought of that, so I decided to try your medicine. I have received so much benefit! May God bless Cardui. I consider it the greatest medicine on earth. Whenever any one says anything about womanly troubles to me I always reply, 'Try Cardui. It did wonders for me, and it will do the same for you.'"

If you suffer from any form of womanly weakness or irregularity try Cardui, the woman's tonic. It helps nature to perform a cure in a natural, easy way. Its ingredients are mild herbs having a gentle, tonic effect on the womanly constitution.

It makes for increased strength, improves the appetite, tones up the nervous system, and helps to make pale, sallow cheeks fresh and rosy.

Many ladies have written to say that Cardui is worth its weight in gold. If you are a woman, try it.

Your druggist sells Cardui, with full instructions for use.

OFFER $1,025,000 FOR IMMUNITY

Duven Brothers Also Willing to Pay Any Fine Court May Assess.

New York, February 27.—Secret negotiations are in progress, it was learned yesterday, for a settlement of the difficulties between the United States government and Duven Brothers, the art importers, who are accused of extensive undervaluations, which, it has been asserted, may have approximated $5,000,000. The dickering, it is said, is being carried on directly through the United States Attorney-General, George W. Wickersham, and legal representatives of the Duvenes, although the United States District Attorney in New York, Henry A. Wise, has been consulted at certain stages of the proceedings. The Duvenes, it was asserted last night by a Federal official, have offered $1,025,000 in settlement of the government's claims for unpaid duty. This offer is contingent on an agreement on the part of the Attorney-General to accept a fine instead of a sentence of imprisonment. The Duvenes say they are willing to pay any fine a judge or jury may decide on, in addition to the $1,025,000 in back duties. The Attorney-General, it is said, is willing to compromise, but wants $1,250,000, and at the same time will not agree to bind the prosecution not to prosecute more of the Duvenes in prison to boot, in addition to whatever fine the court may assess. A representative of the government asserts District Attorney Wise is in favor of a compromise on the basis of a fine without imprisonment, plus as much back duty as can be got out of the Duvenes. Other men accused of undervaluations have made their peace and have been let off with fines and refunds, and there apparently is no reason for making an exception of the Duvenes, Wise is reported as being argued in the negotiation councils. The Duvenes are said to be anxious to lift the government bond from their business, which averages $1,000,000 a year in reported profits. Customers of the firm also are reported as anxious, if not openly clamoring, for a settlement which will relieve them of suspense. The government has asserted its right to collect back duty on all the undervalued articles sold by the Duvenes in the last three years. It is a question whether the government can go into the homes of the customers—into J. P. Morgan's or Henry C. Frick's, for instance—and there seize the art objects. Some insist the United States has no such right, but must content itself with civil action at law for the recovery of the duty. Whatever may be the power of the government, the uncertainty, it is said, is annoying to the customers, who say they want the whole controversy settled. If a compromise is reached the customers will not be bothered by Uncle Sam's law officers, nor is it likely, it is said, the Duvenes would ask customers to "pay up" on the back duties, if such there be. The Duvenes were indicted several months ago, and two members of the firm, Henry J. Duven and Benjamin Duven, were arrested. Bail was provided in $75,000 for Henry J., and in $50,000 for Benjamin. Benjamin Duven is a younger member of the family and has been in the firm only since 1907. The other Duvenes indicted were Joel J. Louis J. and Joseph J., of whom Joel J. was dead at the time of the grand jury's action. In a slander action some years ago in London, in which Jacques Henri Duven was the plaintiff, and his cousin, Joseph Duven, the defendant, it was said in court the Duven business was begun originally in Holland by Jacques Henri Duven's father, a man named Handjas, who married a woman named Duven. When Handjas died the widow carried on the business as Handjas-Duven, and when she was married to her cousin, Joseph M. Duven, the firm became "J. M. Duven." Joseph M. Duven was knighted in England for giving the nation a gallery of paintings. In the slander action, Jacques Henri Duven, or Handjas, complained that Joseph Duven had called him "an unscrupulous scoundrel." One farthing damages was awarded.

PAINTS AT MOTHER'S GRAVE.

Young Woman Protrated and Medicated Attention Is Summoned.
[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
Henderson, N. C., February 27.—One of the saddest scenes ever witnessed at a burial in Elmwood, occurred at the interment of Mrs. A. G. Daniel this evening at 1 o'clock. At the conclusion of the services and when the people had begun to disperse, Miss Nellie, the eldest daughter, from prostration of grief, fainted, and sank in her seat and remained unconscious fifteen minutes before the arrival of a physician. As soon as Dr. Upchurch reached her side, he had her placed in an automobile and taken to her home, but she had not regained consciousness.

FIREMAN SMITH INJURED.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
Roanoke, Va., February 27.—Fireman F. S. Smith, of this city, was injured yesterday at Oakvale, when an ### extra east-bound freight, of twenty-nine cars, ran into a landslide and was derailed. This wreck delayed passenger traffic for nine hours.

FARMER'S HOME DESTROYED.

Flames Caused by Explosion of Incubator Lamp.
[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
Harrisonburg, Va., February 27.—Sunday morning at 3 o'clock an exploding incubator lamp set fire to the home of Oliver Burkholder, near Rushville, Rockingham county, about seven miles northwest of Harrisonburg, in the heart of the country. Clad in their night clothes, father, mother, grandmother and two children had to fight the flames unassisted. In a short while the family found itself burned out of house and home, a pile of ashes alone marking the site of the building. There was not a penny of insurance, and Mr. Burkholder's loss is about $2,000.

SALOON LICENSE REVOKED.

Proprietor Found Guilty of Employing Minor as Bartender.
Roanoke, Va., February 27.—George K. Moore, a saloon man, was fined $50 and his license was revoked here today in the Corporation Court when he was found guilty of employing a minor, Charles Floyd, as bartender. An appeal was taken, and the sentence was suspended. Floyd was on trial here several days ago for vagrancy, and he testified that he had employment in the saloon of Moore. Later Moore was indicted by a special grand jury.

Boys' Corn Club Reorganizes.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
Harrisonburg, Va., February 27.—The Rockingham Boys' Corn Club has reorganized for 1911 with twenty new members, making a total of sixty. The election of officers resulted as follows: President, S. D. Glick, Montezuma; Vice-President, James Good, Timberlake; Secretary, Professor C. J. Heatwole, of the State Normal School; Treasurer, Cornelius Callender, Pleasant Valley.

Baptist Minister Resigns.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
Wadesboro, N. C., February 26.—At the regular service of the First Baptist Church this morning the pastor, Rev. T. W. Chambliss, stated that he would insist upon the acceptance of his resignation, which was offered two weeks ago, and the church reluctantly accepted the resignation.

RAPPAHANNOCK RAISES $100,000 FOR RAILROAD

Prospects Bright for Construction of Line—Movement for New High School at Orange.
[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
Fredericksburg, Va., February 27.—Rappahannock county has raised $100,000 for the proposed railroad from that county to Culpeper. Culpeper business men have subscribed $50,000, and Madison county and Culpeper county jointly $50,000. It is believed now that the railroad will be built, as the promoters only ask for subscriptions amounting to $200,000.

Shad are beginning to run well in the lower Rappahannock River, and some fine specimens are being caught and shipped to the markets. They are bringing good prices.

A movement is on foot in Orange county to establish a new high school building at Orange C. H. The sum of $25,000 has been obtained in subscriptions towards the fund, which is still growing. It is believed that a fine building will be erected by the beginning of the next session.

The people of Orange county, who have operated a successful horse show for number of years, are now endeavoring to establish an agricultural fair association, having in contemplation the holding of an annual county fair at the county seat each year.

James M. Lewis, of Essex county, who has represented Essex and King and Queen counties in the House of Delegates for the past four terms, announces that he will not be a candidate for re-election. R. Carter Wellford, of Richmond county, who represented Richmond and Lancaster counties in the last House of Delegates, has determined not to be a candidate for re-election. R. O. Norris, Jr., of Lancaster county, has announced himself a candidate for the Democratic nomination for the House of Delegates from that district composed of Lancaster and Richmond counties.
